Mindfulness of Breath – "Finger Breathing" (Practice 1)

Purpose/Intention of this Webinar

- What Mindfulness is and (is not!)
- For Self Personal Application of Mindfulness
- For Other Mindfulness in the work of Guidance

How? Using your direct experience, discussion and a theoretical framework

Mindfulness and Guidance Counselling

Three possible ways in which guidance counsellors can engage with mindfulness:

- Practising mindfulness oneself for self care personal and professional
- Facilitating a mindful encounter in the guidance process itself.
- Teaching mindfulness to clients.

Living on Automatic Pilot...

- Am I AWAKE or ALERT or FULLY PRESENT in much of the routine that makes up my day?
- We COPE...somehow....but often on AUTOMATIC PILOT.

What mindfulness is not?

- Mindfulness is not about spacing out or escaping.
- Mindfulness is not simply about attention.
- Mindfulness is not about having a particular kind of experience.
- Mindfulness is not about becoming someone else.
- Mindfulness is not about perfection.

What mindfulness is not?

- Mindfulness is not about changing difficult thoughts or getting rid of difficult feelings.
- Mindfulness is not about being religious.
- Mindfulness is not just about meditation.
- Mindfulness is not about stress reduction, although it can significantly reduce stress.
- Mindfulness is not counselling/therapy

Making four straight lines.
Without lifting your pen
Without tracing back along any of the lines

Observe what thoughts/feelings/body sensations arise while trying to solve this puzzle and afterwards.

observing,
describing,
acting with awareness,
non-judging of inner experience,
non-reactivity to inner experience.

Why mindfulness for me?

What is my intention for this interest in Mindfulness?

Why am I part of this webinar?!

Intention allows us to

- be deliberate about where we place our attention
- create choice in what we attend to
- develop the ability to shift and hold attention where needed.
- set the stage for what is possible.
- to remind you from moment to moment of why you are practicing in the first place.

Focused attention allows us to disrupt negative, ruminative thinking such as, "I'm such a failure because someone criticised my work" by bringing attention to an object of awareness such as the sensations of breathing in the body or other body sensations.

This is not suppression but rather redirection.

Open and receptive monitoring of attention allows us to catch destructive thoughts and early changes in mood or increases in anxiety before they take hold, allowing us to take care of ourselves.

"Attention" is like aiming or pointing a torch in a particular direction.

3. Attitudes – Foundations of Mindful Practice

"To cultivate the healing power of mindfulness requires much more than mechanically following a recipe or a set of instructions. No real process of learning is like that. It is only when the mind is open and receptive that learning and seeing and change can occur. In practicing mindfulness you will have to bring your whole being to the process. You can't just assume a meditative posture and think something will happen or play a tape and think that the tape is going to "do something" for you."

Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR):Standards of Practice (2014). Edited And Revised By Saki Santorelli, The Center For Mindfulness In Medicine, Health Care, And Society University Of Massachusetts Medical School http://www.umassmed.edu/cfm/mindfulness-based-programs/mbsr-courses/aboutmbsr/mbsr-standards-of-practice/

9 attitudinal factors – all interelated – constitute the major pillars of mindfulness practice –

- Non-judging,
- Patience,
- A beginner's mind,
- Trust,
- Non-striving,
- Acceptance,
- Letting go.
- Gratitude (added by Kabat Zinn in 2013)
- Generosity (added by Kabat Zinn in 2013)

Mindfulness Informally.... How?

- Relaxed but alert posture
- Focusing attention on the breath & letting the breath breathe itself
- Paying attention to my thinking
- Paying attention to sounds & sensations
- Realising distractions & gently bringing attention back to breath
- Whatever happens it is okay!

- Through everyday living and in my work (informal practices see VLE)
- Each of my senses is feeding my awareness with information from morning to night and I learn to label each new experience from previous ones (remember the 9 dots!)
 - sight
 - sound
 - touch
 - taste
 - smell

Valuing and learning from all of my experience

McDonaldization of Mindfulness

Kabat Zinn states there are "concerns that a sort of superficial "McMindfulness" is taking over which ignores the ethical foundations of the meditative practices and traditions from which mindfulness has emerged, and divorces it from its profoundly transformative potential. While this is far from the norm in my experience, these voices argue that for certain opportunistic elements, mindfulness has become a business that can only disappoint the vulnerable consumers who look to it as a panacea" from: The Guardian - October 2015 http://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/20 15/oct/20/mindfulness-mental-healthpotential-benefits-uk

Institute of Education

"The principal weakness of the commodified mindfulness strategies is that - by divorcing technique from underpinning value foundations - they militate against the achievement of the key objectives which account for their widespread appeal in the first place: the development of open-hearted awareness and emotional stability, the fostering of positive social values linked to self-compassion and empathy, and the enhancement of mind/body well-being in general"

Hyland, T. (2015). McMindfulness in the Workplace: Vocational Learning and the Commodification of the Present Moment; Journal of Vocational Education

Criticisms of McMindfulness

"While a stripped-down, secularized technique -- what some critics are now calling "McMindfulness" -- may make it more palatable to the corporate world, decontextualizing mindfulness from its original liberative and transformative purpose, as well as its foundation in social ethics, amounts to a Faustian bargain.

Rather than applying mindfulness as a means to awaken individuals and organizations from the unwholesome roots of greed, ill will and delusion, it is usually being refashioned into a banal, therapeutic, self-help technique that can actually reinforce those roots"

Purser, R. & Loy, D. (2013). Beyond McMindfulness; Huffington Post, 1/7/13, http://www.huffingtonpost.com/ron-purser/beyond-mcmindfulness_b_3519289.html

"The Chaos Theory of Careers (Pryor and Bright, 2003ab, 2011; Bright and Pryor, 2005, 2011) characterises people as complex dynamical systems that interact with and are embedded within other complex dynamical systems and are comprised of complex dynamical systems. They are complex because they are subject to a multitude of different influences and they are dynamical because all of these different influences are continually changing". p11

Bright, J. (2016). The uncertain story of career development. Derby. International Centre for Guidance Studies. University of Derby. Available from: http://derby.openrepository.com/derby/handle/10545/610564

- Mindfulness is a model of mind, conveying the principles and functionality of what it is to be a person.
- As a model it helps us to understand elements of the human experience and in managing the complexity and chaos of constantly changing lives.
- Mindfulness (maybe like guidance?) is the map, not the territory.
- The territory of mindfulness (and maybe of guidance?) is the experience itself.
